The Language of Modernity

On Lerbacher Weg in Berlin's cozy district of Marienfelde, four modest buildings are grouped around lush, green communal areas to form a small settlement. The bright, multi-family houses accommodate a total of twenty-four private condominiums. As a pleasant addition, all apartments on the ground floor have their own garden. Spacious loggias and roof terraces are connected to the upper levels and maisonette apartments, and the entire ensemble gives a welcoming feel as it opens outwards.
